William Shakespeare’s

Oklahoma!
Tuesday, October 15 at 11:00 am
The classic American musical of the small-town love story of Laurie, a farm girl, and Curley, a cowboy, against the background of a changing nation. This musical represents a pivotal moment in the development of Musical Theater. A perfect opportunity for performing arts students to see this definitive work live. Also suitable for American History classes.
Additional Performances: October 9 - 20, 2013

Macbeth
Tuesday, February 18 at 11:00 am
Shakespeare’s finest tragedy about corruption of power and consequences of blind ambition. An amazing play about the rise and fall of a great tragic hero Macbeth as he struggles to hold on to his power. This performance will feature talented graduate-level actors. Ideal for English Literature classes or performing arts students.
Additional Performances: February 12-22, 2014
